RIA PETH VANDERPOOL

Ria enjoys experimenting with colors and textures, and likes to let the chosen medium help create the piece. The reuse and re-commitment of materials is important to her, and you will find many of her base materials 'repurposed'. Often her art has the ability to be hung and viewed in a variety of directions, providing versatility and new perspective. This December showing at the Lincoln Art Bar is inspired by her love of music, nature, and giving new life to what may have been considered 'junk'.
